

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A digital signal receiver includes a distributed information storage unit having a data storage device for storing broadcast information. A menu frame for the information items stored in the data storage device is reformed as table-of-contents information having the same signal format as the received broadcast signal. As a result, it is unnecessary to specially provide a browser for creating a display frame, simplifying the structure of the receiver as a whole.

298615_1.DOC